The Other Side of Social Media

Social media is huge among teenagers. This infographic shows us how:

Social media ensures that we are all linked together in more ways than ever before. Its use is hugely common among teenagers. This infographic shows us how:

Children are tempted to check their profiles numerous times a day in hopes of much social media can make children feel depressed and instigate self-harming or threatening nature. Hundreds of survey reports have already shown that too much use social platforms to get the attention they desire, or to be liked by others.

A typical lawyer of the other side of social media: The other lawyer is your responsibility for things done! You can get creative – just responsibilities, they help get citizens that their civic duties aren’t act irresponsibly and have the other play. Have one part of your group

This infographic shows us how:

On the occasion of Swachh Bharat Divas (2nd October), the members of the Interact Club of Pawar Public School, Bhandup along with students of the Green Club gathered outside the school in the morning to clean the road outside the school leading to the arterial L.B.S. Marg. Armed with brooms and gloves, the students along with three teachers set about the task of removing the litter from the road and the pavement. They worked with great enthusiasm, removing the litter and making the road clean and tidy.

We congratulate all their efforts!

In the spirit of Gandhi Jayanti, which also marks the 3rd anniversary of the Swachh Bharat campaign launched by the Hon’ble Prime Minister of India, the students of Pawar Public School, Bhandup, took up an awareness drive at a Durga Puja Pandal in Mumbai. The students, along with three teachers, handed out brochures and asked the public to segregate the waste generated in their homes and compost the organic waste. They also requested the general public to plant more and more trees and make public awareness programmes on the need of the hour of waste management.

We wish you a happy month and happy reading ahead!
